POOLS DECLARED OFF.

PHILADELPHIA, September 2.—The defeat of the great pacer Halpointer was the feature of the second day of the grand circuit trotting meeting at Philadelphia Driving Park. The first heat looked like a dead heat between Johnston and Halpointer, but the judges gave it to the latter. In the third Johnston was first to the half in 1.06¼. Halpointer then came fast until half way down the stretch, when he slowed up and seemed to be in distress. He came in bleeding at the nose. Yolo Maid was also in distress, and found too sick to start again. Halpointer was sick in the fourth heat and Johnston won easily. Halpointer was then withdrawn and Johnston jogged over the track in the fifth heat and took the race. The judges declared off all pools on the race, and the protestations of those who placed their money on Johnston were loud and long continued. The judges did not contend foul play but said the horses were certainly sick when the race started, and in view of Halpointer's recent great performances on other tracks innocent bettors were placed at a disadvantage to the benefit of those who knew of the great pacer's ailment.

Yesterday's Case in the Epidemic of Deadly Crime.

His Keys in His Pocket and the Door Securely Locked.

LOWELL, Mass., September 2.—There is no doubt in the minds of the police that David Belanger, the Merrimack street dry goods merchant, was murdered in his shop last night. Belanger's body was found there this morning. The fact that the door of the place was locked, and the keys were in the pocket of the dead man's trousers at first pointed to suicide, but when search revealed no weapon, the murder theory became more plausible. Another examination of the body shows the head to be almost severed. The blow was struck with an axe or butcher's cleaver. Bruises, found on the head, indicate that the unfortunate man was struck to the floor and then a blow given that severed the carotid artery and back bone, leaving the head hanging to the body by a strip of flesh. The man's false teeth were found about ten feet from the body. Near the teeth was a match, on which the sulphur was burned off.

One theory is that Belanger went into the place about midnight, as he was seen past 11 o'clock, and that when he struck a match, somebody in hiding sprang upon him, and killed him before he could utter a cry. Death must have come almost instantly after the cut. When the body was found it lay on its face in the blood. One arm was doubled, the hand being flat on the floor as if the man was attempting to raise himself to his feet when death came. One of his hands was cut. The assailant might have passed out of the building after his awful work with small chance of being discovered. The spring lock on the door to the shop, which is up one flight, would have locked the shop door and the work of getting to the street might have been accomplished by using the murdered man's keys and placing them back in his pocket. Belanger had for a partner Miss Mary Marion, who is in Canada, and has been there three months on a vacation. Belanger was about forty-eight years old and unmarried. He had been wandering for two or to a few years ago, although he made his headquarters here. He was eccentric. The police have no clue.

THEY MARCHED AND DANCED.

OLD ORCHARD, September 2.—Today has been the big day of the Patriarchs Militant encampment; and a big day it has been for Old Orchard too. At no time this season has there been such a crowd at the beach, and especially in the evening.

The fun of the day began at 10 a. m. when all the cantons assembled in front of Hotel Fiske and formed in line for the dress parade. The line of march was through the principal streets of the town. In the afternoon the civil authorities of the town met to Biddeford and Saco and paraded the streets of those two places. Mounted police, the Biddeford Light Infantry and the Biddeford First Regiment band headed the procession, the cantons marching in brigades. The decorations of private residences, especially in Saco, were very fine. There were two very fine arches adorned with emblems.

After parading the streets there a sumptuous repast was served at the high school building in Biddeford by J. H. Dearborn canton.

The cantons returned to Old Orchard at six p. m. In the evening everybody's point of destination seemed to be Hotel Fiske and by eight o'clock the steps, verandahs and every nook and corner in the house were filled with people. At nine o'clock the staff officers and ladies formed in line and proceeded to the Fiske Auditorium where a reception was to be given to Major O. S. Whitten and staff. The reception committee was Col. F. R. Farrington, Col. W. E. Plummer, Adjutant F. T. Moseley and Capt. R. M. Mason. After the staff officers the chevaliers accompanied their ladies proceeded to the parlors and were presented to General Whitten and staff. After the reception, line of march was formed from the parlor to the dance hall, where the grand ball was to open. The company passed through the office to the inspiring strain of Chisler's full band. The ball was a great success. A Portland orchestra furnished good music.

WATERVILLE, September 2.—The case of the State vs. Alden and Deehan has been postponed for ten days. This is the test case on The Best Tonic, which rivals Uno in this part of the state. It was put up and sold in immense quantities as a patent medicine, but the State assayer says it contains almost five per cent of malt. A stubborn fight will be made by the druggists, supported by the manufacturers, the Pabst Brewing Company, and a contest that will rival the great Uno fight is looked for.

WATERVILLE, September 2.—The bondsmen of Marshall Percival, Auburn's defaulting cashier, all of whom live in this city, having been sued by the bank for the amount of the bond, have instructed their lawyers to contest the case to the last.

The Baptists at Auburn.

AUBURN, September 2.—Today's meetings of the Cumberland Baptist Association opened with a large attendance.

At 10 o'clock the committee on state of religion in the churches reported through Rev W. H. Clark of Mechanics Falls and the report was adopted after lengthy discussion, participated in by Rev. D. T. Wyman, Rev. George W. Avery, Rev. J. M. Wyman, P. A. Durgan, Rev. L. B. Talbot and Rev. C. L. Rhoads. The committee on temperance reported through Rev. G. W. Avery of Freeport and an admirable paper on the subject was read by Rev. J. M. Wyman of Augusta.

A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Wyman for the paper, and it was also voted to ask Dr. Burrage to publish the same in the Advocate, if the author were willing. The committee on obituaries reported through Rev. T. P. White of Bath.

Then after singing came the doctrinal sermon, at 11.30, by Rev. George E. Tufts of Brunswick, assisted by Rev. J. S. Wilson of Freeport. The afternoon exercises were in accordance with the printed programme.

CALAIS, September 2.—The Sixth Maine Veteran Association held its eleventh annual reunion here today. The weather was cool, with frequent showers. There was an average attendance. Campbell of Pembroke secretary, and A. B. Sumner of Lubec treasurer.

Fall River Cotton Manufacturers Cut Down Wages.

FALL RIVER, Mass., September 2.—The Cotton Manufacturers' Association held a meeting this afternoon and voted to reduce wages. The matter of revising the schedule of prices now paid was referred to an executive committee which will report as soon as possible. The reduction is expected to go into effect October 5th. The amount to be generally understood even by the manufacturers, but it is believed it will average ten per cent. This action was taken because there appears no relief in the clouds of prolonged depression hanging over the cloth trade for many months and also because the Fall River manufacturers are now paying more for labor than the average of mills in other parts of the country.

Secretary Robert Howard of the Mule Spinners' Association, said: "From the daily reports of the market the country has been led to believe that prices are firmer, and the outlook for trade seemed better. Fall River should not have been the first to reduce. This action will be followed everywhere by other manufacturers, and the result will be the lessening of the price paid for goods. Reduction in wages never yet helped a depressed trade, and my opinion was to be given to Major O. S. Whitten and staff. The reception committee was Col. F. R. Farrington, Col. W. E. Plummer, Adjutant F. T. Moseley and Capt. R. M. Mason. After the staff officers the chevaliers accompanied their ladies proceeded to the parlors and were presented to General Whitten and staff. After the reception, line of march was formed from the parlor to the dance hall, where the grand ball was to open. The company passed through the office to the inspiring strain of Chisler's full band. The ball was a great success. A Portland orchestra furnished good music.

Uno's Rival.

WATERVILLE, September 2.—The case of the State vs. Alden and Deehan has been postponed for ten days. This is the test case on The Best Tonic, which rivals Uno in this part of the state. It was put up and sold in immense quantities as a patent medicine, but the State assayer says it contains almost five per cent of malt. A stubborn fight will be made by the druggists, supported by the manufacturers, the Pabst Brewing Company, and a contest that will rival the great Uno fight is looked for.

WATERVILLE, September 2.—The bondsmen of Marshall Percival, Auburn's defaulting cashier, all of whom live in this city, having been sued by the bank for the amount of the bond, have instructed their lawyers to contest the case to the last.

The Baptists at Auburn.

AUBURN, September 2.—Today's meetings of the Cumberland Baptist Association opened with a large attendance.

At 10 o'clock the committee on state of religion in the churches reported through Rev W. H. Clark of Mechanics Falls and the report was adopted after lengthy discussion, participated in by Rev. D. T. Wyman, Rev. George W. Avery, Rev. J. M. Wyman, P. A. Durgan, Rev. L. B. Talbot and Rev. C. L. Rhoads. The committee on temperance reported through Rev. G. W. Avery of Freeport and an admirable paper on the subject was read by Rev. J. M. Wyman of Augusta.

A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Wyman for the paper, and it was also voted to ask Dr. Burrage to publish the same in the Advocate, if the author were willing. The committee on obituaries reported through Rev. T. P. White of Bath.

Then after singing came the doctrinal sermon, at 11.30, by Rev. George E. Tufts of Brunswick, assisted by Rev. J. S. Wilson of Freeport. The afternoon exercises were in accordance with the printed programme.

ROBBERS COOLLY TOOK THOUSANDS

Then They Mounted Their Horses and Rode Away.

Blood Hounds Are Now on the Trail of the Desperadoes.

ST. LOUIS, September 2.—A special despatch from Del Rio, Texas, to the Post-Dispatch says: "Telegraphic advices from Samuel, Texas, a small station on the Southern Pacific Railway, located in a thinly settled section, give an account of a daring train robbery committed by six masked men at that place shortly after midnight last night. All the money and valuables in the safe of the express car were secured by the robbers, as well as several sacks of mail and registered packages from the mail car. The amount of money obtained cannot be learned but it was doubtless tens of thousands. The train was just pulling out from the station when six masked men simultaneously mounted the mail and express cars, two men for each. Over 40 shots were fired, literally perforating the baggage and express car, without injuring any one. Then the unexpected mode of procedure was adopted of exploding a dynamite cartridge against a small window in the express car. This tore the window out and otherwise damaged the car. The express messenger was stunned, but recovered only to be overpowered by the robbers and made to give up his keys. The train was delayed several hours. The robbers took their time in doing the job, and worked with the utmost coolness. Horses were in readiness for them, and on the completion of the work the bandits rode rapidly away, and are now in Mexico beyond the reach of the authorities. The sheriff of this city was telegraphed to secure a posse and give pursuit. He left at 10 o'clock this morning."

MOUNTAIN PASSES GUARDED

DENVER, Col., September 2.—It is now stated that the Rio Grande train robbers secured $12,000 from the express car. At 1 o'clock all the telegraph wires between Cotopaxi and Pueblo were cut, it is supposed by the robbers. As soon as bloodhounds were taken to the place of the robbery yesterday, they struck the trail, and when last heard from were going toward Wet Mountain. All the mountain passes are being guarded.

EGAN HEARD FROM.

Broken Telegraph Wires Prevented Him from Sending Earlier News.

WASHINGTON, September 2.—At last the Department of State has heard directly from Minister Egan. The news came in the form of the following cablegram:

SANTIAGO, September 1.

To Blaine, Washington:

There was a decisive battle at Valparaiso the 28th of August. The revolution is entirely successful. President Balmaceda went past me. The revolutionists are fully installed, and everything is tranquil.

[Signed] EGAN.

The delay in receiving this report has been solved by the department. Acting Secretary Wharton has received information that telegraphic communication between Santiago and Valparaiso had been cut, and has just been restored, and that the line eastward from Santiago to Buenos Ayres has been interrupted by heavy snows in the Andes mountains.

Although Minister Egan's cablegram officially indicates the success of what he describes as the revolution, he has not yet informed the Department of State that a government has been set up that may be recognized as the government of the people and representative of the country. Accordingly the department will probably await further detailed information from the minister before according formal recognition to the new government.

THE PRESS.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to retain or preserve communications that are not used.

The Auburn Gazette is spurring the Lewiston officers to see that the wholesale gambling that prevailed at the state fair last year is prevented this year, and the officers are promising to be vigilant. Time will tell how well their performance comes up to their promise.

The Hon. Roswell Pettibone Flower who is making an active canvass for the Democratic candidacy for Governor of New York and who appears likely to be successful, having a big barrel and the support of Gov. Hill, has roused the enmity of Lieut. Gov. Edward F. Jones who himself was a candidate and was making some headway before Flower started in. Jones accuses Flower of bad faith, alleging that he promised he would not be a candidate, and warns him that getting a nomination is one thing and an election quite another. Jones has a newspaper and is supposed to have some influence with the farmers and if he declares war upon the millionaire he will make it rather uncomfortable for Mr. Flower, especially as the latter has nothing to recommend him but the possession of great wealth.

The testimony of Mr. Ward Lamon, who was one of Mr. Lincoln's most intimate friends, that the latter desired the nomination of a Southern man for Vice President in 1864, seems to leave little room for doubt as to the correctness of Col. McClure's original assertion to that effect. Lincoln's idea was that such a selection would strengthen the ticket, inasmuch as it would tend to weaken the force of the cry which was then raised against the Republican party that it was sectional and not national. In this opinion the National convention concurred. There is no ground, however, for the inference that Mr. Lincoln's idea was the offspring of any distrust or dislike of Mr. Hamlin. It sprung, in all probability, purely from considerations of locality—considerations which always have and always will influence nominating conventions.

The disclosures of the Dominion census are exciting a vigorous discussion in the Canadian newspapers of the policy of the government during the last ten years. The St. John Telegraph attacks the big expenditures for railroad building, and thinks it about time to call a halt. It says:

In 1881 Canada had 7,260 miles of railway. Now we have twice that mileage. Then we had in round figures one mile of railway to every 500 people in the country; now we have a mile of railway for every 340 persons. This is probably the highest ratio of any country in the world. But for what purpose were all our railways built? The ready answer will be to open up and develop the country: to induce settlement; to afford greater and cheaper facilities for communication; to bring the surplus products of the inland districts to the seaboard for shipment, and to convey the purchases made abroad back to the interior of the country. Down to a certain stage all these objects were accomplished by the building of railways in Canada. But so far as promoting settlement and increasing the population of the country the railway extension made since 1881, and including one half our total mileage as already stated, has effected little or nothing. In fact it may be said to have accomplished nothing in the older provinces. In the Northwest and British Columbia somewhat better results appear, though upon analysis it becomes clear that we have simply taken a few hundreds of thousands of our own people from the east and transplanted them to the west. None of the older provinces have maintained their natural rate of increase in population, while the maritime provinces have made practically no advance at all.

Possibly the condition of the Dominion today would have been worse but for this railroad building, that is to say, the population might have shown a large falling off instead of a slight increase, but whether it would or not it is pretty evident that the Telegraph is right in thinking that the big expense the taxpayers have been subjected to is altogether out of proportion to the benefits that have accrued.

A correspondent of the New York Times who has been making a tour of Kansas to ascertain the facts about the prohibitory law reports that on the whole the law is reasonably well enforced. Outside of the four cities of Leavenworth, Kansas City, Atchison and Wichita there is not an open saloon in the state. Liquor can be had in these places but it is to be found only in back rooms and out of the way places, and a guide is necessary to enable a stranger to procure it. The Kansas druggists are permitted to sell liquor under certain restrictions. The applicant must sign an application and be sworn by the druggist, who is empowered to administer oaths. This opens the way to a prosecution for perjury, if the name precedes a disease that cannot be well established. There have been but few, if any, prosecutions for the latter offence. As the druggist must at all times keep his application book in a public place, subject to inspection, the sales are not numerous, nor are they large in quantity This feature of the Kansas law is, it seems to us, superior to the arrangement under the Maine law for the supplying of liquors for legitimate uses. Our agencies are practically at liberty to sell liquor for any purpose whatever, though of course the law contemplates only the sale by them for legitimate purposes. But the Kansas druggist cannot sell until the purchaser has declared under oath that the liquor is to be put to medicinal or mechanical uses. The superiority of the plan is shown in the results. The correspondent of the Times informs us that the sales by the Kansas druggists are small, while as regards the Maine agencies the fact is that their sales are large and always increase in proportion to the vigor of the enforcement of the law against other places, showing pretty conclusively that a large part of their sales are for purposes that the law does not recognize as legitimate.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Eastern Argus, asks "Who ever heard of abandoned farms in Maine thirty years ago?" If the Argus will consult the census report of 1860 and compare it with that of 1880 it will discover that a very much smaller area of the State was under cultivation in the former than in the latter year. In 1860 there were 5,727,671 acres of land in farms in Maine, of which 52.8 per cent. was unimproved. In 1880 there were 6,552,578 acres of land in farms, of which only 46.8 were unimproved. As compared with 1880 there were in 1860 some 800,000 less acres under cultivation. The Argus can call these 800,000 acres abandoned farms or not as it pleases, but they were acres not under cultivation in 1860 which were under cultivation in 1880. It is a curious fact if, as the Argus declares, agriculture has been declining in this State ever since 1860 and the lot of the farmer has been constantly growing harder, that there should have been 80,000 more acres under cultivation in 1880 than in 1860. But the Argus knows that agriculture is on the decline from the following melancholy circumstance which it thus narrates:

We have in mind a case in point that came under our own observation. The farm is located on the Saco river in Oxford county. It is an intervale farm, of average fertility and size, and easy of cultivation. An intelligent, able-bodied man, under thirty years of age, worked this farm for three years, and at the end of the third year had run behind $150. He had worked hard himself, had a good helper in his wife, was economical, and correct in all his habits. Scarcely more than a year ago this young farmer quit the farm, went to Massachusetts, bought an interest in a flour and grain store, and a recent letter from him to the writer states that he is doing a good business, is making money.

It is no doubt perfectly possible to prove any business under the sun a failure by this process. Men fail in everything—intelligent and able-bodied men, too, men who work hard and have good wives. This young man succeeded in the flour and grain business, but hundreds of young men men have failed in the flour and grain business. The probability is that he was better adapted to trade than to farming. To present his failure as conclusive proof that farming in Maine is necessarily unprofitable is absurd.

PERSONAL AND PECULIAR.

An elephant larger than Jumbo has been captured in Africa.

A joint political discussion has been arranged to take place at Ada, Ohio, some Saturday in September, between Major McKinley and Governor Campbell.

Andrew D. White has promised to accept the Republican nomination for Governor of New York provided it is tendered him unanimously and the platform adopted meets his approval.

A trial recently made in the German army showed that dispatches can be sent more speedily by horsemen then by bicyclists. The horses were not ridden at high speed, while the bicyclists went at full speed.

The young women of Hammonton, N. J., are competitors in raising chickens, and the town has more poultry than any other in the State. Under a single roof a prominent breeder has had as many as 8,000 broilers at once as well as 2,000 hens. In one season Hammonton has sent 60,000 birds to market.

Some of the sons of famous fathers are demonstrating the falsity of the historic slur on the children of great men. The latest of them to achieve prominence is Francis Darwin, a son of the great apostle of evolution. He is becoming famous for his researches in biology, and was recently elected President of the biological section of the big Demographic Congress in London.

Mrs. O. W. Gates of Putnam, Ct., for many years national secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, well known throughout all sections of New England, and personally acquainted with all the Baptist missionaries laboring in foreign fields, will soon leave for Japan and India, and visit all the Baptist stations before returning home. She will be absent a year or more.

A determined effort is to be made to break the will by which Mrs. Hopkins-Searles bequeathed solely to her second husband the thirty or more millions left her by her first husband, Mark Hopkins. Twenty-one relatives by blood of the dead woman have combined with her adopted son, Timothy Hopkins of San Francisco, to contest the will on the ground that undue influence was exerted upon her to make her husband her sole legatee. It will be claimed besides that she was not in sound mental condition when she executed the will. Timothy Hopkins, it is said, has refused an offer of $5,063,000 to withdraw his opposition to the probate of his adopted mother's will, and will, Sept. 17, file his claim.

Rev. Ignatius F. Horstmann, D. D., of Philadelphia, who is believed to have been chosen in Rome to succeed Bishop Gilmour of Cleveland, Ohio, is fifty-one years of age. His early education was obtained in this country, but he was one of five students sent from America to the American College attached to the Propaganda at Rome in 1860. Having received the degree of doctor of theology, he taught from 1866 to 1877 in the Catholic Seminary in Philadelphia, in the departments of logic, metaphysics, ethics, German and Hebrew. He is now chancellor of the diocese and the spiritual director of the Convent of Notre Dame, and of the three associations, Children of Mary, Tabernacle Society and the Confraternity of Christian Mothers which meet there. He has twice before been considered for a bishopric.

OF INTEREST TO INVESTORS.

Safe, Profitable and Where You Can See It.

6 PER CENT GUARANTEED.

Much More Probable.

The Hall Mowing Machine Company offer for sale $50,000 of preferred stock The Chapman Banking Company of this city guarantees upon this stock a 6 per cent dividend, payable semi-annually, for three years, the first dividend being payable September 15, 1891. In ADDITION to the dividend guaranteed it can be readily shown that the stock is also certain to draw a contingent dividend much larger than that guaranteed. In our judgment it cannot fail to pay better than 20 per cent.

The company is the owner of patents which are conceded to be of the greatest value, and which many expert machinists predict will evolutionize the manufacture of mowers. The company has already more orders than it can fill the present year, and unquestionably has a future of exceptional prosperity. Among those interested in this enterprise are several of the strongest men of Portland and vicinity.

Until April 1st, unless previously withdrawn, this stock will be sold at par; after that date, at par and accrued guaranteed dividend.

The stock is offered solely for the purpose of extending the plant and building and equipping a new factory.

We shall be glad to give full particulars of our property and our plans to any investor who will call at our factory, 27 Commercial Street, Portland, or to furnish like information by mail to any who prefer to make inquiries in that way.

When the Portland directory was last revised your correspondent's occupation was entered therein as a "gardener," and as a consequence he has been the butt of many good natured gibes by his fellow townsmen. But when some of his granger neighbors saw him dig his potatoes, yielding a bushel to every twelve hills; when they saw his barrel of a bushel of shelled beans from a piece of land 15 by 30 feet; and were also cognizant of the fact that his garden produced peas, beans, cucumbers, sweet corn, tomatoes, etc., each in their season at least a week earlier than his neighbors, they were forced to confess that the directory man didn't shoot so wide of the mark.

REVIEW OF PORTLAND WHOLESALE MARKET

FOR THE WEEK ENDING, Sept. 2.

Trade in general merchandise continues to improve, and business for the last month, especially the latter part, was very encouraging. Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report a moderate expansion in the demand for seasonable staples among manufactured goods, with an increased activity in wool and worsteds, clothing, lumber and leather at Boston and Philadelphia. There has been less activity in Wheat the past week at the leading markets, and prices have for the most part been depressed. Still the leading features have not changed materially, and the situation has been more settled than for the two previous weeks. The cause of the decline has been the temporary falling off in the European demand. Flour is firm and in good demand at unchanged prices. Based on the position of Wheat flour is selling unusually low, as all indications point to an advance in prices in the future, when the real necessities of the world are known. The Corn market is very unsettled and 2c off from last week's quotations. In Provisions pork is quiet and unchanged; plate beef is 25@50c lower; hams ¼@1½c higher. All grades of cheese are 1@1½c higher. The fresh fish market is nearly bare and dealers are unable to supply the demand; cod and haddock 5@6c; halibut are very scarce at 16c; mackerel 6c ℔ lb for small and 14c for large; sword fish in fair supply at 14c. The best grades Fresh Beef are scarce and very firm, while the poorer quality is 1@1½c lower; sides 6@9, hinds 9 @13c, fores at 4@5½c, rounds and flanks 6@7c, rump loins 16@18c, rattles at 3@4c, backs 5@7c, sheep 9c, yearlings 10c, lambs 10@12c, pork ribs and sausage 11c. Sugars are very firm, raws ⅛c higher at 4 11-16c for ex-quality fine and 4⅝c for standard granulated; Extra C unchanged at 4⅛@; stock of raw in the four ports at the latest dates was 66,891 tons against 42,794 tons in 1890 and 46,219 tons in 1889. Molasses is firm with a fair demand, stocks light; stock in the four ports at latest dates was 2595 hhds, against 1135 hhds in 1890 and 10,048 hhds in 1889. Teas are firmer for Formosas, other grades unchanged. Linseed and boiled oils are 2c ℔ gallon higher. In cordage manilla is ¼c lower, Spices are quiet, Sweet potatoes are lower at $3@3 25 for Norfolks and $3 75@4 for Jerseys. Apples are in full supply and lower at $1@2 ℔ bbl; peaches are $1 25 ℔ basket tomatoes $1 ℔ box; pears $4 ℔ bbl; cabbage $1 ℔ grapes 40@60c perbasket; beets $1 25 ℔ bbl; squash $1 25.

Surgeon General Sutherland, U. S. A., was in Portland yesterday.

Hon. Daniel S. Lamont, who was private secretary of President Cleveland, is at Sorrento.

Grand Prophet B. B. Foster and Great Sanap F. E. Wheeler will go to Cleveland Saturday as delegates to the Red Men's Great Council of the United States.

Chief Clerk R. E. Graves left yesterday for Brentwood, N. H., where he will pass a short vacation. He will attend the national convention of postal clerks at the Thousand Islands next week.

Found After Thirty-four Years.

Mr. Charles Whitus resided in Portland in 1857, when his wife and he disagreed, and she left him, taking their son, a boy of five years. The father couldn't find where she had taken the boy. In 1861 Mr. Whitus enlisted in the secret service under Colonel Baker, and in 1865 was sent on business to the East Indies. In Calcutta he heard of a boy of the same name at work on the Afghanistan railroad. Mr. Whitus hunted the boy up and he proved to be a nephew from Dover, N. H. Then Mr. Whitus went into the show business, and this proving unprofitable Mr. Whitus formed a partnership with J. W. Wilkes, the parters inventing the Whitus and Wilkes car coupler. When the coupler was tested in Salem, Mass., about a year ago a young man named Charles Whitus, in the employ of the Boston & Maine in that city, saw it, and corresponded with Wilkes & Whitus to ascertain who the Mr. Whitus was. Mr. Whitus proved to be young Whitus's father, and was overjoyed to find his son after a 34 years' search.

Raising an Unlawful Assembly.

Patrick Hession, a longshoreman, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of obstruction and raising an unlawful assembly. A schooner arrived at the Maine Central wharf, having on board 500 tons of coal for the Rolling Mills and 1100 tons for the Maine Central. The Rolling Mills people insisted on sending their crew to unload their part of the coal at the Maine Central wharf. The Maine Central people declined to allow this, saying they would discharge all cargoes at their own wharf, but the Rolling Mills might take the vessel to another wharf and unload their coal. Capt. Benj. Willard is stevedore for the Maine Central. Yesterday morning the Rolling Mills people sent Patrick Hession with a big crew to the Maine Central wharf. The result was that Mr. Hession got himself arrested as stated above. The case was set down for trial in the municipal court Saturday.

Lanterns and torches, flags and bunting, all displayed in various unique and curious fashions on bicycles of all sizes and makes, combined to form a most interesting spectacle last evening. It was the annual lantern parade of wheelmen, and it was, as usual, a complete success. While there lacked a few of being quite as many wheels in line as last year, there were more elaborate and novel features in the procession.

The streets were crowded with people, particularly around the club house, as the hour for starting approached. There was of course the usual—more, if anything,—number of young boys circulating around, and their comments were anything but inspiring at times. The crowd congregated far more rapidly than did the decorated wheels, as was of course to be expected, but when the procession started there were sixty or more bicycles in line. The club house was finely decorated with flags and lanterns. High street was lined with people as the machines moved across Congress street and down toward Cumberland.

Among the fine displays may be mentioned the "Man in the Moon" design of Wallace Robinson. The rider sat in the hollow of the new moon, and over his head hung the point of the crescent, from which was suspended a star and lantern. The whole was covered with tinsel.

John C. Stevens propelled what might be called a "high-roller," a windmill, or a circular saw; he stated that it had not been named, and before the procession had proceeded far the whole affair lost its identity and went up in smoke. It was unfortunate, for the design was most original.

Harry Stevens rode beneath a mammoth umbrella, from every point of which lanterns were hanging. Perhaps he thought it might rain, as it so often does when the wheelmen set out to have a good time.

Another feature was the kicking donkey, which young Mr. Hudson handled with the skill of a jockey, maintaining his balance like a veteran, never once losing his seat.

H. B. Hart had his Eagle dressed up to look like a sunflower, and the representation was quite natural, too.

Walter Griffin steered his yacht design over the course with all the skill of an "old salt," as did likewise Johnnie Kilborn, who was captain of a more pretentious craft—that is, he called it a ship.

H. R. Merrill rigged his machine up to represent a kite, but the wind never once took him off the ground, although the design was so good that people knew at once what it was.

W. W. Jordan fluttered around with his butterfly.

M. E. Dunlap was another man who was navigating a ship, and a worthy one it was, too.

Charles Dyer had his wheel prettily fixed up with flowers, as did also P. T. Tucker, the latter wearing a tall, white campaign hat and looking every inch a politician.

Up near the front was W. H. Buxton, who wore a mask and dressed otherwise as a clown, with rags pending not only from his clothes, but all parts of the spokes of the wheel as well. He rode an ordinary, and had to take considerable chaffing from the crowd; but that was just what he desired.

Along the route were many fine illuminations. Dr. Foster, John F. Rand and A. D. Sweetsir illuminated. James Day, on Cumberland street, gave a fine display of fireworks; Messrs. Calderwood and York on North street, hung out lanterns; the gongs in the engine house on the hill were sounded as the wheels went by; Murphy Brothers sent up a lot of fireworks; Dr. Palmer, illuminated. F. T. Merrill & Co., Federal street, displayed much red fire; Col. Smith, Deering street, Mr. John E. Dewitt and others illuminated; Mr. Prince on Congress street, lit up the surroundings to a lurid color; W. S. Eaton and Geo. C. Shaw illuminated, as did Dr. Weeks; L. A. Goudy decorated his residence splendidly with lanterns and flags and displayed fireworks profusely. John Calvin Stevens's house looked well in its lantern decoration, as did also Lawyer Frank Woodman's residence on Thomas street. Wm. Stevens, State street, displayed lanterns.

Mr. F. M. Brown officiated as captain of the parade and acquitted himself with honor. But the success of the affair is largely do to the energetic efforts of the joint committee from the Wheel Club and Pine Tree Wheelmen, of which Mr. E. E. Tuttle was the chief and moving spirit. Mr. Swasey in a team in advance occasionally sounded the bugle call, while red fire was displayed from the same team by Mr. Tuttle.

The difficulty of keeping the lanterns lighted, with all the shaking which a bicycle imparts, is a serious obstacle to a glittering display, but as a whole the lanterns remained illuminated very well last evening.

The judges as to the prize winners were Messrs. G. W. Norton, W. C. Emerson and Robert Rexdale. They did not make public their decision last evening. It is understood, however, that they unanimously awarded the first prize for the best decorated safety to Mr. Stevens, taking their observations when the procession started. Whether the fact that Mr. Steveyn's display was burned before he had proceeded over much of the route will cause any change of decision could not be learned. Many favorable comments were made regarding Mr. Robinson's design. The first prize for safety was a fine watch chain, presented by F. L. Merrill & Co.; second prize, a luggage carrier given by H. W. McCausland; first prize ordinary, a pair of opera glasses, donated by E. E. Tuttle; second prize, bicycle horn given by Mr. McCausland.

About the Bicycle Races.

A sufficient number of men have entered for each of the bicycle races at Woodford Park on the afternoon of Labor Day to ensure the entire success of every event; and, as the entries do not close until 8 o'clock tonight, it is reasonable to suppose that the number will be augmented in some of the races. The gold and silver medals will be exhibited in some jewelry store window as soon as they arrive. Tickets for the races may be purchased at the bicycle agencies, or of members of the Wheel Club. Four teams have entered the team race, which means that eight men will be on the track at one time, and as this is a two mile race, it is likely to be interesting.

Produce Dealers at the Islands.

The Portland Fruit and Produce Exchange made their second annual excursion yesterday to Great Diamond Island. The committee showed excellent judgment in selecting the Portland Club House for the annual outing. The sail was thoroughly enjoyed, for the day was perfect. Promptly on the arrival of the steamer an excellent shore dinner was served by the steward. No business was done, the meeting being entirely informal. The time was spent in playing whist, pool and a lively game of base ball. A vote of thanks was extended to Manager C. W. T. Goding for his kindness in furnishing a special steamer. There were fifty of the members present and the Exchange congratulated themselves on having a day from the cares of business.

Maine Central Railroad.

The Maine Central Railroad is doing a rushing business carrying people to the fairs held at various places. To accommodate holders of tickets to Gray, the time has been extended over Friday. There will be a large excursion on Saturday from Waterville and Lewiston, and one over the White Mountain division, to give the people a chance to see the White Squadron. It is probable that there will also be excursions run on Sunday. It is expected that a large number of people will take the trip. The annual Aroostook excursion will be held September 13, 14 and 15, and as usual will take a crowd to Houlton and Presque Isle. The road will also run an excursion to Quebec on the 21st inst., and special fare will be given.

The extra quality Revere granulated sugar has long been conceded by consumers to be the best in this country, and all first-class retail grocers supply it to their customers, and now this fact is emphasized by some of the wholesale grocers charging more for it than for any other.

common sense, and this quality, backed by personal character and outressed by a thorough honesty of purpose, is always of great service in a republic. This service Mr. Hamlin always rendered, and his power increased with his years. At no time during his long and varied career could he have laid down so much power as he did when, at the age of 72, he voluntarily left the Senate of the United States. To his strong character, to his sound judgment he added that which is one of the characteristics of greatness, much steadfastness of purpose. In the House of Representatives at Washington I have known many greater orators than the late Mr. Randall. Indeed, he was not an orator at all. I have known many better debaters; I have known many men with more tact and a greater knowledge of affairs, but I never knew a stronger man. His iron face and close shut jaws were victory itself. Mr. Hamlin had the same quality of mind; he was steadfastness itself. I well remember more than twenty years ago in the midst of a fierce fight, coming upon him, in the little room between the Senate and House of Representatives at Augusta, encouraging his followers; and there comes over me today a remembrance of the thrill of admiration which, opposed to him as I was, I then felt as I thought with what pluck and courage he had fought the battle.

Mr. Hamlin in his habits was the simplest of men. He had no idea of pomp or ceremony. He had a genuine regard for everyday people. He never forgot a favor, and was himself the most unwearying of men to do one. Gratitude with him was a lively sense of favors past. He never deserted a man because he could be of no further use to him. If you had his word you had his bond. If any change of circumstances made him change his attitude towards you, you were the first to know it. He was of the most kindly nature, and yet, his kindliness was not of that flabby sort which takes in the whole world, for he could, kindly though he was, on suitable provocation, be as unrelenting as fate itself.

But while I thus do honor to the virtues of Mr. Hamlin, I must not give you the idea that there was nothing picturesque about his career. It was a career full of stubborn fights, and he won no honor without a battle. These I cannot describe, yet it is fitting that to this audience, composed for the most part of veterans of the war, I should bring the recollection of the most brilliant episode in Mr. Hamlin's life and also one of the most brilliant preludes to the great political battles in which you participated. Mr. Hamlin was always opposed to human slavery; he was always on the side of liberty. He fought for liberty withing his party; but when in 1856 he threw off party allegiance and made his appeal to the people, his journey across the state of Maine was a triumphal march, the like of which there never had been before and never has since. It was followed by a remarkable victory which, in the end, made him Vice President, and might have made him the President of the United States. What might have been the effect upon this country had he been the successor of Abraham Lincoln we can never know; and yet, we may be fully assured that whatever honesty of purpose, sound sense and patriotism could have done, would have been substituted for some of the scenes which history will, perhaps, be sorry to record. To Mr. Hamlin this could be no subject of regret. After many subsequent services to his country and after a tranquil old age, amid the genuine sorrow of his old friends and neighbors at his own home, furrounded by his family, he died full of years and full of honors.

Hunt-Foster.

The wedding of Mr. J. J. Hunt of Tennessee and Miss Foster, daughter of Dr. T. A. Foster of this city, which took place at the First Parish church yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, was a simple but beautiful ceremony. The young friends of the bride had decorated the pulpit very effectively in palms, golden rod, clusters of berries and trailing green. Mr. Kotzschmar's music, prepared especially for this occasion, was of the finest and in solemn, yet joyous harmony with the religious character of the rite. The sweet strains of the organ were continued during the service, which was performed by the Rev. John A. Bellows.

At a few minutes past the hour, the bridal pair entered the church, preceded by the ushers, Dr. Addison S. Thayer, Mr. Richard Webb, Mr. Edward F. Tompson, and Mr. Charles S. Cook. Miss Eliura W. Foster, sister of the bride, and maid of honor, wore a rose-colored mousseleine de soie over silk with garniture of pink flowers at the half low neck, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair. The bride's gown was of rich white silk, with veil of tulle and bridal roses. The intimate friends of the bride wore evening dress. The guests largely filled the body of the church and the galleries.

The best of good wishes will follow Mr. and Mrs. Hunt in their journey to Saratoga, Niagara and other places of interest, and to their home in Tennessee. In making her residence away from Portland Mrs. Hunt will be greatly missed. In the Fraternity, First Parish Sunday School and in other directions her efficient and unselfish help has been generously given and greatly valued. Her new circle of friends will gain by Portland's loss.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.

Mr. Shea produced the Corsican Brothers at Portland Theatre last evening. The lantern parade interfered with the size of the audience, but all who were present fully enjoyed Mr. Shea's spirited interpretation of the characters of the twin brothers. Mr. Lyman as Chateau Renaud, Green as Mons. Maynard, Hewitt as Baron Montgeron, Miss Statel as Emily and Messrs Gavin and McAuliffe as the fighting Corsicans were all good. Tonight, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

THE BOSTONIANS.

The Bostonians will appear at City Hall, Saturday afternoon and evening, September 19. "Robin Hood" will be the opera given. All the old favorites will appear, also the two new sopranos. There will be 60 artists in the company this season and 14 in the orchestra. Tickets on sale at Stockbridge's Monday morning, September 7 at 9 o'clock.

THE STOCKBRIDGE COURSE.

The Stockbridge regular course will open Wednesday evening, October 14 with a grand concert by Madame Lillian Nordica, the celebrated prima donna, Sig. Galassi, the world renowned baritone, Mr. W. H. Reiger, tenor, Miss Gertrude Edmands, alto, a solo pianist, violinist and accompanalst.

PAVILION THEATRE.

There were good houses at both performances of McCallum's aggregation yesterday. It begins to look as though this popular resort will be crowded at all the matinee and evening performances for the rest of the week. Secure seats at Stockbridge's.

THE POPULAR COURSE.

This course will open Tuesday evening October 16 with J. M. Hill's company, Helen Barry, in "A Night's Frolic." This company had a run of over two months at the Park Theatre, Boston, last season.

NOTES.

Most of the Stockbridge entertainments, both courses, will come on Wednesday evenings this season.

The Stockbridge and Popular course tickets will be sold at City Hall Saturday morning, September 12, at 9 o'clock. The list of attractions will be advertised in Monday's papers.

A Worthy Object.

Most of the readers of this paper will remember that a very sad accident occurred a few weeks ago at Oakdale, Deering, when Mr. James Heffler, a carpenter, at work on a building on William street, fell backward from a staging some distance to the ground, injuring his spine so badly that he was carried at once to the Maine General Hospital where he lies helpless. He is paralysed from his chest to his feet. His is a case calling for aid and sympathy, as Mr. Heffler has three small children who are motherless and almost fatherless. Friends are now turning their attention to his family. He was a poor man, dependant on his daily wages, but always ready to assist a poorer or sorrowing brother. Mr. Heffler has a large circle of friends among the Good Templars and they propose to do all they can for him and his family. A committee from the different lodges is selling tickets for an entertainment to be given Monday evening, September 14, at Mystic Hall. It is hoped to see a crowded audience present, as all the proceeds will go directly to the family of Mr. Heffler. Cake and cream will be on sale at intermission.

Cathedral Choir Excursion.

The annual excursion of the Catholic Cathedral choir and invited guests took place yesterday. Dinner was served at the Granite Spring Hotel, Long Island, and was very satisfactory. Captain Tabbutt, of the steamer Mary Libby, made all of the party feel at home on the boat, both to and from Lon Island.

TENNIS, THIRD DAY.

A Beautiful Day and Some Very Fine Playing.

Boat Races and Other Sports at Cape Cottage.

The heavens smiled on the tennis players Wednesday and there was some of the best playing ever seen in a tournament in this city. Mr. Jones appeared at the time set for opening, 10.30 a. m., but forfeited to Mr. Eustis. Howard and Denison then commenced their match in singles. Mr. F. W. Dana acted as referee. Denison won the toss-up and chose the right hand court. Mr. Howard led out and by good strong service soon had two games to his credit. Denison at this point made a brace and tied the score, then passed his opponent and won the set, 6-5. Howard was in good form and made some fine shoots and short returns, and was much applauded. The spectators, who were much more numerous than on either of the previous days, were thoroughly impartial, and whether Denison made return shots on balls that were three or four feet above his head or Howard tried a wonderful shot in which he stood back to his opponent and cut over his shoulder, applause was frequent and hearty.

In the second set Howard played a winning game from the start, although Denison kept near him to the end. The score was 6-4. One brilliant play by Howard was a return stroke so near the net that as the ball went over Mr. Howard himself slid under in a manner that would have brought him home safe in the national game.

The third set was long and exciting, a 'vantage game being played, both players being thoroughly warmed up and each doing his best. Mr. Howard won by one game and the vantage game. At 12.30 play was suspended until afternoon.

Play was resumed at 3 p. m., Dana and Eustis playing off the last preliminary match in singles. Mr. Dana easily won the sets and the match, 6-3, 6-2.

Following this match came the match in doubles between Dana and Woodman and Hinkley and Donnell. This was emphatically a game of tennis, everyone of the players doing his level best. Mr. Woodman easily carried off the honors, playing a rattling game at all points, but the others did well, Donnell doing some fine placing and being well backed by Hinkley. Dana put up his usual first class, even work. The score, 6 1, 6-3.

The third and last match of the day came on at 5 p. m., being in doubles between Woodman and Dana, as winners of the previous match, and Day and Howard, the Bates College team. It took three sets to decide the match. Woodman and Dana won the first, 6-5; Day and Howard won the second, 6-3, and Woodman and Dana the third and closing set, 6 5, after a hard struggle. Mr. Day is second baseman in the Bates ball team.

Today the finals in singles will be played between Dana and Howard. Pickard and Eustis will play Woodman and Dana in doubles. As today's games are the survival of the fittest most excellent work may be expected.

Sports at Cape Cottage.

The ending of the summer season at Cape Cottage has begun with a round of festivities that will make the many patrons at that delightful resort remember it with pleasure in the years to come. On Monday evening a mock trial was held in the hotel parlors. The proprietor of the hotel, Mr. D. B. Smith, was tried for stealing lobsters. Mr. George L. Bell was the judge, Hon. J. A. Stratton was the prosecuting attorney, and Mr. R. A. Jordan was the counsel for the defense. After a sharp trial the counsel was successful in securing the acquittal of the prisoner at the bar.

Tuesday afternoon, in spite of the threatening weather, one of the most exciting series of races took place that has ever occurred at the Cape. Aquatic and field sports also were indulged in.

The first race was over a mile and a half course around the bell buoy in front of the hotel. Five crews in all started. This race was the most exciting of all, and was won by Mr. R. A. Jordan of the senior class at Harvard, who stroked, and Mr. William Clifford, who rowed bow. Mrs. Mary Horsford acted as coxswain. The time was 9 minutes, 28 seconds.

The swimming race for men came next and was won by J. T. Wade, with Edward Fox a close second.

The ladies' boat race was an easy victory for Miss Mabel Moore and Miss Gage, who were coxswained by Phil. Bourrowes.

The ladies' swimming match was won by Miss Florence Vivian. In the plank race Master P. B. Jordan had a walkover.

The punt race was the most comical feature of all the acquatic sports, and the winning punt had in it the following men: Messrs. Fred Waterhouse, Percy Bourrowes and Edward Fox.

In the field sports Mr. Percy Bourrowes and William Clifford won the three-legged race, and Mr. Frank Stratton and Will M. Jordan won the back to back race. Mrs. J. A. Stratton showed herself the best runner among the ladies and received a prize.

In the evening presentation of the prizes took place and much amusement resulted. The prizes were little medals of silver with events and dates inscribed upon them. This was followed by progressive euchre, in which Mr. Bampton of New York won the first prize, Mr. A. Jordan the second, and Mr. Smith the booby. For the ladies Mrs. Bampton was first, Mrs. J. A. Stratton second, and Mrs. S. B. Parris the booby.

OBITUARY.

Dr. James M. Buzzell.

Dr. James M. Buzzell died of dysentery at his residence, No. 428 Congress street, yesterday afternoon. He was born in Parsonsfield, November 4, 1812, and was therefore 79 years of age. He was the son of Rev. John Buzzell, founder of the Freewill Baptist denomination. He studied medicine with Dr. Moses Sweat, and took his first course of medical lectures at the Bowdoin Medical College in 1834. He attended a course of lectures by Dr. R. B. Mussey at Hanover, N. H., in 1835, and graduated in 1836. He practiced for four years at Springfield, Mass. where he had charge of a private surgical hospital. He was for six years professor of surgery in two colleges at Philadelphia, when he wrote a series of medical articles that were widely copied.

In 1851-2 he represented the classed towns of Limerick, Cornish and Newfield in the state legislature, and took a leading part in the agitation that resulted in the enactment of the Maine law, being one of General Dow's best supporters. He represented the town of Gorham in the legislature of 1869. He was at one time a preacher, and had more than a local reputation. Dr. Buzzell edited the Maine Free Will Baptist Repository eight years and the Watch Tower two years, which were in the interest of what are now called General Baptists. Dr. Buzzell edited and published a health magazine called "Buzzell's Medical Journal."

When the Eclectic Medical College of Massachusetts was chartered Dr. Buzzell accepted the chair of anatomy and surgery in that institution. He also received an appointment to the chair of surgery in the Eclectic Medical College of Pennsylvania, and while he resided in Philadelphia he filled the chair of surgery in the Pennsylvania Medical University, the institution that first opened its doors for the education of female students. Dr. Buzzell was prominently connected with the organization of the Eclectic Medical College in Maine, of which institution he was the dean.

Historical Society's Field Day.

The Maine Historical Society will hold its fall field day today and tomorrow, making an excursion to the Kennebec, where they will visit the old court house at Pownalboro, Fort Shirley, Pastor Jacob Bailey's church, Swan Island, Lawson's plantation, Hammond Head, Robert Gutch's church, Stage Island, town of Cork, Timpkin's plantation, Colonel Noble's port, Lithgow farm, and the old burial ground, besides other historical spots.

This excursion of the Historical Society up the Kennebec calls to mind the fact that the old Pownalboro court house. in Dresden, which was once the scene of legal contests in which John Adams figured, was erected by the Plymouth company in 1761. The old Episcopal church, known as St. John's church, Pownalboro, together with the parsonage, was erected in 1770. Although the site of church and parsonage can still be traced, as well as ancient graves, all went to decay long ago, and is rapidly becoming overgrown with bushes, hardly suggestive of the scenes of beauty and busy activity so graphically described by Rev. Jacob Bailey in the "Frontier Missionary." Yet on this spot was gathered a congregation composed of French Huguenots, German, Scotch and Irish Protestants. It is indeed a spot about which cluster events of a very interesting character.

Mr. Samuel J. Bridge, the donor of the statue of John Harvard to Harvard College, is still a resident of Dresden, and remembers the ruined frame of the old church. He is expected to be present on the occasion and is, as he avers, a connecting link between the ancient and the modern time. St. John's church of the present day is situated some two miles from the historic spot.

The Portland members will leave the Union Station this morning for Bath on the 6.40 train over the Maine Central. The party will rendezvous at Bath and proceed in the steamer Islander to Fort Popham, quartering at the Eureka House tonight, Hon. P. O. Vickery, the proprietor, having kindly consented to keep his house open till then to accommodate the excursionists.

Five Gallons of Whiskey to Six Men.

Yesterday afternoon Marshal Hight was riding on Cassidy's hill when he saw several men under the willows who acted suspiciously. Upon reaching the place he found four men laid out drunk, while two attempted to run away, one of whom in his effort fell down the railroad embankment, a distance of some 15 feet, without injury. The men had stolen a five gallon keg of whiskey and had spilled the greater part of it. The marshal telephoned for the patrol wagon and five of the men were taken to the station. The sixth got away.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THEY LAUGHED —AT— THE IDEA!

For many years after the introduction of machinery, the products were considered unequal to hand-made goods, but the ingenuity of man has by constant improvement and reduction in price created a demand for machine made goods and has very nearly eradicated the prejudice which prevailed years ago. The fabrics that the wealthy wear are reproduced in cheaper material, and the house furnishings that cost fabulous amounts in the original are also reproduced at such prices as to bring them within the reach of the middle classes.

For a few days we shall have on view and offer for sale at astonishing prices some of the chaste productions of fine funiture. THE PHŒNIX FURNITURE CO. spend enormous sums each year on the expenses of their designers, who wander all over Europe in search of quaint pieces of furniture from which to remodel and create novelties.

We offer CHAMBER SETS in the following woods: Bird's Eye Maple, Old English, Mahogany, Natural Cherry, Cremona, Quartered Antique Oak; our prices on any of these sets will be placed at the lowest possible figure in order to introduce this high grade furniture.

The SIDEBOARDS in this shipment claim a special attention; the finish is perfect, the designs quaint, the workmanship the best; Oak and Old English are the leaders this season.

HALL STANDS are also included and their peculiar style and massive proportions are striking.

To those desirous of surrounding themselves with fashion's latest, we offer these fine goods at a nominal profit to ourselves; we desire to remove from the minds of the public the ideas that many entertain, that because we do the largest business in New England in the medium and cheaper grades of furniture, that therefore high class goods are not obtainable at our stores; we wish emphatically to correct this impression and assure the public that our stock embraces the latest and best productions of the market, as well as the largest and lowest priced assortment of general house furnishings.

We invite your inspection of these charming Chamber Sets, Hall Stands and Sideboards.
